Synchrony of Neuronal Culture and reproducing kernel Hilbert space on Spike Trains

By
Il Park

Computational NeuroEngineering Laboratory
Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering
University of Florida

Tuesday September 5, 2006, 3:00 PM, NEB 409

Abstract
While studying the dynamics of cortical culture model, we recognized the need for synchrony measure. We propose a synchrony measure of spike trains related to information potential. It turns out that a general framework of reproducing kernel Hilbert space on spike trains can justify the smoothing of spike train to make continuous signal and using second order statistics methods on it.